Asset Allocation

The asset allocation, hedging and market tracking is managed and maintained by RMB. This enables RMB to cut out leakage (3rd party fees) and pass the economic benefit directly onto the investor.

The asset allocation in the product, as mentioned above, is dynamically managed on a daily basis. The product has 3 mandated asset classes which RMB use to maximise returns and effect the guarantee. The strategic allocation, at inception, to these asset classes is as follows:

- 60% RMB ALSI40 Tracker (Tracks the South African Top 40 Index on a total return basis – dividends are reinvested)
- 40% Alternative Assets (Equities, bonds, commodities and alternative assets)
- 0% Cash

As this is a dynamically managed product, the strategic allocations to the various asset classes will vary over time depending on the market conditions.

The strategic asset allocation has been developed using extensive quantitative modelling, using an extensive range of asset classes.

Historic Product Performance

The graph below shows the historic simulated returns of the product, as well as the returns for the South African equity market proxy (Top40 index).

Summary

The RMB Protected Flexible 100 product has been designed to provide the investor with the maximum possible equity exposure along with a full explicit 100% term capital guarantee. This provides maximum security, with the option to still participate in market rallies.

Product Investment Strategy

The RMB Protected Flexible 100 product aims to provide the investor with as much exposure to the South African equities market as possible, whilst protecting the downside risk by offering the comfort of an explicit FirstRand guarantee.

The dynamic asset management provides the investor with the best possible managed equity exposure (given the market conditions). This is achieved by dynamically allocating between the different asset classes for the appropriate market conditions (formula driven process). In essence this means allocating more to equity exposure when markets are favourable, and vice versa when market conditions are more difficult.

Guarantee

The explicit guarantee is based on 100% of the Capital investment into the product.
